

Your symptoms, connected.

— RECOMMEND IT BEFORE THE VISIT

Bring the plan into the room.

When a dismissed patient prepares with Connective Corpus, they arrive organized and source-cited — so your minutes go to decisions, not reconstruction.

- Time — the visit starts at the plan.
- Discretion — only abstracted terms leave the story.
- Cited — 27 verified sources, tiered T1-T5.

— GET IN TOUCH

EMAIL hello@connectivecorpus.com

WEB connectivecorpus.com

Connective Corpus is an AI research companion. It does not diagnose and is not medical advice. It organizes patient-reported information into source-cited questions; you rule things in or out. Sources shown by credibility tier (T1-T5).

Your symptoms, connected

— FOR CLINICIANS

More of the visit, spent with your patient.

They arrive organized and source-cited — so your minutes go to the conversation and the plan, not the recap.

A companion that hands you something to verify — never a diagnosis.

— THE PAYOFF

Valuable data in. Valuable time back.

Months of scattered history arrive organized and source-cited — so more of the visit goes to the plan, not the recap.

A 15-min visit today

With Connective Corpus

● History & recap ● Assessment & plan

Illustrative — a typical 15-minute primary-care visit, redirected from history-taking to the plan.

— WHAT LANDS ON YOUR DESK

Every claim weighed by source and tiered T1–T5; what’s unverified becomes a question, never a guess.

A normal or negative result does not reliably rule out disease; testing more markers didn’t improve that.

[T1] Watson et al., BJGP 2019 ↗

? Worth asking: would it be reasonable to run ANA, CRP, ESR, and check immunoglobulins?

● NOT YET TESTED

ANA / ENA panel · Immunoglobulins · CRP · ESR

This is not a diagnosis.

— WHAT IT CHANGES FOR THE VISIT

The short appointment, rebalanced.

● Time

Start at what to test and rule out, not the recap.

● Discretion

The narrative stays with the patient; only abstracted terms are queried out.

● Care value

Sourced and ready to act on — being believed stops being the price of admission.

— GET IN TOUCH

EMAIL hello@connectivecorpus.com

WEB connectivecorpus.com